The WV Interfaith Refugee Ministry is a group of Christian, Jewish and Muslim clergy and laypersons who have come together to help refugees, in light of the current crisis in Syria and other places around the world, that has displaced millions of people. We are located in Charleston, West Virginia.

Our goal is to educate elected officials and others about:

- (I) interfaith understanding
- (ii) the current crisis and the process of refugee resettlement
- (iii) volunteer opportunities available and what help is needed
